2. At one point Daisy says, "I was just supposed to be the inspiration for some man's great idea. . . . I had absolutely no interest in being somebody else's muse." How does her experience of being used by others contribute to the decisions she makes when she joins The Six?

6. Billy and Daisy become polarizing figures for the band. Who in the book gravitates more toward Billy's leadership, and who is more inclined to follow Daisy's way of doing things? How do these alliances change over time, and how does this dynamic upset the group's balance?
7. What role does the reliability of memory play in the novel? Were there instances in which you believed one person's account of an event more than another? What does the "author" mean when she states at the beginning, "The truth often lies, unclaimed, in the middle"?
8. Camila says about Daisy and Billy, "The two of you think you're lost souls, but you're what everybody is looking for." What does she mean by this?
