Discussion Questions

1. "History has failed us, but no matter." How does the opening line reflect the rest of the book --- and do you agree?
2. In a way, Sunja's relationship with Isak progresses in reverse, as her pregnancy by another man brings them together and prompts Isak to propose marriage. How does Lee redefine intimacy and love with these two characters?
3. "Their eldest brother, Samoel, had been the brave one, the one who would've confronted the officers with audacity and grace, but Yoseb knew he was no hero....Yoseb didn't see the point of anyone dying for his country or for some greater ideal. He understood survival and family." What kinds of bravery are shown by different characters, and what motivates this bravery?
4. Compare Noa's biological and adoptive fathers, Hansu and Isak: What qualities does each try to foster in Noa, and why? Whom does Noa most resemble?
5. What does "home" mean to each of the main characters? Does it ever change? In what ways does a yearning for home color the tone of the novel?
6. Compare the many parent-child relationships in the novel. How do they differ across families and generations? What hopes and dreams does each parent hold for their children --- and are these hopes rewarded?
8. How do courting and marriage alter from one generation to the next?
9. Compare the ways in which the women of this novel --- from Sunja to Hanav --- experience sex.
10. Why do you think the author chose PACHINKO for the title?
