Re: London Public Library – Internet Filtering

At its meeting held on September 30, 2009, the Board of Control received a presentation from yourself and the Chair of the Board of Trustees, London Public Library, and a communication from Councillor Miller with respect to the use of Library computers by the public.

The Board requested the London Public Library to report back on the upcoming review of its computer usage policies and, when undertaking that review, to consider the following:

- (a) ensuring that the Library maintains the most up to date and effective filtering programs;
- (b) the possibility of increasing the number of computers which have filtering programs;
- (c) what tools might be available to filter hate crime sites; and
- (d) locating computers with filtering programs so that they are in easy view of Library staff.
